A: $start_index starts at zero, not at 1. Either use $start_index = 1 or use preg_match("~\b(\d+\.\d+)\b~", $line, $matches) where the $matches[1] is your number. $line means the line of text where the string should start. $matches[1] is the number you want. You can then use the ->formatnumber() method to clean it up a bit. Product Description Now there's a travel garment that will help you travel with style in a revolutionary new way. The stylish Cabrol Smart Travel Suit completely surrounds your body, providing the perfect amount of coverage, while allowing you to make the most of your movement. * This product is manufactured by Cabrol & Cie and distributed by Cabrol UK. Specific sizes and colours cannot be specified for this product. How to Style We would suggest wearing a dark polo neck or t-shirt with the Cabrol Smart Travel SuitQ: `jquery.click().each() within.each()` I have a table with 'row' elements. What I'm trying to do is click on one of the rows then a submit button with a hidden input, and then, based on if the input value is what I want, do something else. The code below is not working. Is there a better way to do this? `$("tbody tr").each(function() { $(this).click(function() { $(this).find(".hidden").val($(this).find(".header-inner-7").text()); $("#SubmitData").click(); }); $(".hidden").each(function() { if ($(this).val() == "test") { alert("success"); } });` f678ea9f9e
